I. FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT

Plaintiffs bring this action under the terrorism exception to the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, 28 U.S.C. § 1605A (“FSIA”) against Defendants the Islamic Republic of Iran, the Iranian Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps (“IRGC”) and the Iranian Ministry of Intelligence and Security (“MOIS”) for damages arising out of the June 25, 1996, terrorist attack on the Khobar Towers complex in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia (“Terrorist Attack”). On that day, Hizbollah terrorists, acting at the direction and with the material support of Defendants Iran and its agents the IRGC and MOIS detonated a 5,000-pound truck bomb outside the complex, which housed United States military personnel.¹ The blast from this bomb sheared off the entire face of the Khobar Towers complex and shattered windows more than a half a mile away. The blast killed nineteen air force servicemen and injured many others. This Court has previously recognized liability for the Terrorist Attack by these Defendants and co-conspirators.²

Plaintiffs are thirteen (14) injured members of the armed forces who survived the blast and twenty-one (21) of their immediate family members. They seek compensatory and punitive damages under the 28 U.S.C. §1605A (c), and under applicable state and federal law, against Defendants the Islamic Republic of Iran, the Iranian Ministry of Intelligence and Security and the Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps, jointly and severally, and in support of their Complaint allege as follows:

² Blais v Islamic Republic of Iran, 459 F. Supp. 2d 49 (D.D.C. 2006); Estate of Heiser v Islamic Republic of Iran, 466 F. Supp. 2d 229 (D.D.C. 2006); Rinkus v Islamic Republic of Iran, 575 F. Supp. 2d 181 (D.D.C. 2008).

2. 28 U.S.C. § 1605A(c) provides a federal private right of action against a foreign state that is or was a State Sponsor of Terrorism, and also against any official, employee or agent of that foreign state while acting within the scope of his or her office, employment or agency, for wrongful death, personal injury and related torts.

LeSandro Santiago was awarded the Air Force Commendation Medal with Valor and Airman of the Month for his heroism following the attack.

96. As a result of the blast Mr. Santiago suffered lacerations and bruising to his body including a 1.5-inch shrapnel wound to his left wrist which has resulted in scarring; hearing loss and tinnitus in the left ear, trauma to his left kidney, Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder and further emotional and psychological injuries. He continues to suffer from and be treated for these injuries.

B. Defendants.

97. Defendant, The Islamic Republic of Iran, has been designated a state sponsor of terrorism pursuant to Section 6(j) of the Export Administration Act of 1979, (50 U.S.C. § 2405(j)) continuously since January 19, 1984.

98. The Government of Iran is politically and ideologically hostile to the United States and its allies, and has consistently provided material support for acts of international terrorism, including extrajudicial killings, torture, and hostage taking, particularly through the MOIS, IRGC, and its Lebanese-based Hizbollah, which historically have served as Iran's proxies and agents, enabling Iran to project extremist violence and terror throughout the Middle East and around the globe.

99. More specifically, Iran provides, sponsorship, material support, and resources to Hizbollah, a known terrorist organization, by providing it with funding, weapons, direction, and training to carry out terror attacks, which consist of extrajudicial killings, torture, and hostage taking as those terms are defined in the FSIA, 28 U.S.C. § 1605A(a)(1).

100. The formation and emergence of Hizbollah as a major terrorist organization is largely due to the government of Iran. Defendants, MOIS and the IRGC, have been the primary instruments used by Iran to provide Hizbollah with funding, training, weapons and other essential material support.

101. The significant support provided by Iran enables Hizbollah to be a terror organization capable of recruiting terrorists and carrying out large-scale terrorist attacks, like the attack on the Khobar Towers complex.

102. The Islamic Republic of Iran has been found to be liable as a foreign state supporting international terrorism under 28 U.S.C. § 1605(a)(7) (predecessor to 28 U.S.C. § 1605A) to victims of state-sponsored terrorism for the acts and actions of Hizbollah in cases before this Court, including, Anderson v. The Islamic Republic of Iran, 90 F. Supp. 2d 107 (D.D.C. 2000) and Cicippio v. Islamic Republic of Iran, 18 F. Supp. 2d 62 (D.D.C. 1998).

103. The Islamic Republic of Iran has also been found liable by this Court for the June 25, 1996, Terrorist Attack on the Khobar Towers, that is in the subject of this Complaint. See, Rimkus v. Islamic Republic of Iran, 575 F. Supp. 2d 181 (D.D.C. 2008); Blais v. Islamic Republic of Iran, et al., 459 F. Supp. 2d 40 (D.D.C. 2006); Estate of Heiser v. Islamic Republic of Iran, 466 F. Supp. 2d 229 (D.D.C. 2006).

104. Describing the role Iran and its agents played in the Khobar Towers' attack, the court in Rimkus stated as follows:

“The totality of the evidence at trial, combined with the findings and conclusions entered by this court in Blais and Heiser, firmly establishes that the Khobar Towers bombing was planned, funded, and sponsored by senior leadership in the government of the Islamic Republic of Iran, the IRGC had the responsibility and worked with Saudi Hezbollah to execute the plan, and the MOIS participated in the planning and funding of the attack.” Rimkus v. Islamic Republic of Iran, et al., 575 F. Supp. 2d 181 (District of Columbia, August 26, 2008)

105. Defendant, the Islamic Republic of Iran, is thus collaterally estopped from denying that it is liable for the acts and actions of its agent, Hizbollah in carrying out the Terrorist Attack at issue here.

106. Defendant, MOIS, is the Iranian intelligence service and functions both within and beyond Iranian territory. It supports Iran's international terrorist activities by providing material support, including resources and intelligence, for the commission of acts of extrajudicial killing, torture and hostage-taking. This Court has consistently found MOIS to be a political subdivision of Iran for purposes of liability and damages under the FSIA.³

107. Here, MOIS, acting as an agent of Iran, performed acts, which caused the terrorist bombing of Khobar Towers. MOIS assisted Hizbollah's terrorist activities through the provision of material support and resources including intelligence, funds, training, supplying weapons and direction to Hizbollah. MOIS performed these acts while acting within the scope of its agency for Iran, and specifically performed these acts in support of Hizbollah's bombing of the Khobar Towers on June 25, 2006.

108. This Court has repeatedly held Defendants, Iran and MOIS, liable as state sponsors of Hizbollah's terrorist activities pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1605(a)(7).⁴

109. Defendant, IRGC, also known as Pasdaran, is a military organization and a branch of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

110. The IRGC has been described as 'a nontraditional instrumentality of Iran' that acts as 'the military arm of a kind of shadow government answering directly to the Ayatollah and the mullahs who hold power in Iran.' Rimkus v. Islamic Republic of Iran, 575 F. Supp. 2d at 187 (quoting Heiser, 466 F. Supp. 2d at 251-52 and Blais, 459 F. Supp. 2d at 47).

³ See, e.g., Valore v. Islamic Republic of Iran, 700 F. Supp. 2d 52, 71-722 (D.D.C. 2010); Bennett v. Islamic Republic of Iran, 507 F. Supp. 2d 117, 125 (D.D.C. 2007) ("Defendant MOIS is considered to be a division of state of Iran, and is treated as a member of the state of Iran itself."); Salazar v. Islamic Republic of Iran, 370 F.Supp.2d 105, 116 (D.D.C. 2005).

⁴ See, e.g., Surette v. Islamic Republic of Iran, 231 F. Supp. 2d 260, 267 (D.D.C. 2002); Stethem v. Islamic Republic of Iran, 201 F. Supp. 2d 78 (D.D.C. 2002); Wagner v. Islamic Republic of Iran, 172 F. Supp.2d 128 (D.D.C. 2001); Jenco v. Islamic Republic of Iran, 154 F.Supp.2d 27 (D.D.C. 2001); Sutherland v. Islamic Republic of Iran, 151 F. Supp.2d 27 (D.D.C. 2001); Anderson v. Islamic Republic of Iran, 90 F. Supp.2d 107 (D.D.C. 2000).

111. The IRGC “constitute[s] [an] integral part[] of Iran’s political structure, and thus, constitute[s] a foreign state for [FSIA] purposes.” Akins v. Islamic Republic of Iran, 332 F. Supp. 3d 1 (D.D.C. 2018).

112. Founded after the 1979 Islamic Revolution in Iran, the IRGC has become a powerful military instrument for defending the Islamic fundamentalist revolution and the Islamic Republic of Iran and is dedicated to the export of Islamic Fundamentalism principles throughout the world through acts of terrorism.

113. The IRGC is the agent through which Iran prepared and oversaw the actions relating to the bombing of the Khobar Towers in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia on June 25, 1996. The IRGC, acting as an agent of the Islamic Republic of Iran, performed acts within the scope of its agency, within the meaning of 28 U.S.C. § 1605A, as a conduit for the Islamic Republic of Iran's provision of funds, training, and direction to Hizbollah for its terrorist activities that caused the injuries to Plaintiffs herein.

114. The IRGC has consistently been found liable as a foreign state supporting international terrorism under 28 U.S.C. § 1605(a)(7) for the acts and actions of Hizbollah in cases before this Court including, Higgins v. Islamic Republic of Iran, 2000 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 22173, 2000 WL 33674311(D.D.C., 2000); Surette v. Islamic Republic of Iran, 231 F. Supp. 2d 260, 267 (D.D.C. 2002) ; Salazar v. Islamic Republic of Iran, 370 F. Supp. 2d 105 (D.D.C. 2005); Levin v. Islamic Republic of Iran, 529 F. Supp. 2d 1 (D.D.C. 2007) and others.

115. The IRGC has been also found liable by this Court, for overseeing the actions in the attack on the Khobar Towers as detailed in the factual allegations below. See, Heiser v Islamic Republic of Iran, 466 F. Supp. 2d 229 (D.D.C. 2006); Blais v. Islamic Republic of Iran, 459 F. Supp. 2d 40 (D.D.C. 2006).

IV. FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

116. In the early 1980s, Iran developed a program of carefully planned terrorist attacks designed to destabilize Middle Eastern governments and spread fundamentalist Islamic principles. To achieve its goal, Iran, through the MOIS and IRGC, established Hizbollah in Lebanon as its proxy terror organization to employ tactics such as kidnapping, torture, and murder. The MOIS and the IRGC provided funding, training, and equipment to Hizbollah enabling it to pursue and achieve its mission. By the early 1990s, the activities of Hizbollah were no longer limited to Lebanon. Its operatives were operating in a number of countries utilizing the tactics taught to them in Iran and the Bekka Valley in Lebanon at facilities established, operated and supported by the Defendants.

117. In the early 1990s, the United States military developed a presence in Saudi Arabia. Iran viewed the presence of United States personnel, including members of the United States armed forces, as supportive of the corrupt Saudi monarchy, and its pro-Western regime, which opposed the Islamic Republic religious and political ideals and the establishment of an Islamic state in Saudi Arabia. Iran believed that a large-scale terrorist operation designed to kill Americans, which would lead to significant casualties, would weaken support in the U.S. and its allies for its presence in the region, or weaken support in the host nations for a continued U.S. presence.

118. To that end, the Iranian government, acting through its agents the MOIS and the IRGC and in concert with the Saudi-based Hizbollah terrorist organization began preparations for the bombing of a target associated with American interests.⁵

119. In 1995, Iran, through MOIS and the IRGC, prepared to execute an attack on an American target. Saudi Hizbollah operatives scouted potential American targets in Saudi Arabia, and explosives were smuggled into Saudi Arabia and hidden for later use. An elaborate professional intelligence network was established and tasked with carrying out the bombing.

120. The attack itself was approved and supported by the Ayatollah Khomeini, Iran's Supreme Leader at the time, and by Ali Fallaahian, the then-head of the MOIS who provided intelligence security support for the operation and received direct support from his representative in Damascus, Syria.⁶

121. Individuals were recruited principally by a senior official of the IRGC, Brigadier General Ahmed Sharifi. Sharifi, who was the operational commander, planned the operation and recruited individuals for the operation at the Iranian embassy in Damascus, Syria.⁷

122. By June 1996, bomb components, including high explosives, incendiary materials, and sophisticated fuses and tools used in the bomb assembly, were stored in Saudi Arabia. Agents of Defendants Iran, MOIS, and the IRGC collectively selected and approved Khobar Towers as the target to be destroyed by Hizbollah.

⁶ Blais, 459 F. Supp. 2d. 40, 48 (D.D.C.2006); Heiser, 466 F. Supp. 2d at 252.

123. The Khobar Towers complex was a residential multi-story apartment building complex in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia that housed United States Air Force and other U.S. military and coalition forces personnel charged with monitoring compliance with U.N. security council resolutions. The deployment of U.S. troops to the region was considered a “peacetime deployment with a friendly host country.”⁸

124. In the evening of June 25, 1996, shortly before 10:00 p.m. local time, two men drove a stolen Mercedes Benz gasoline tanker truck loaded with at least 5,000 pounds of plastic explosives into the Saudi compound that surrounded the American sector at the al-Khobar military area near Dhahran. The terrorists parked the truck next to the Khobar Towers complex, approximately 80 feet from a building which housed the American personnel.⁹ The men drove away in a stolen getaway vehicle. A few minutes later, the 5,000-pound truck bomb was detonated. The resulting blast sheared off the entire face of the Khobar Towers complex and shattered windows in virtually every building in the compound and in surrounding buildings up to a mile away.

125. The truck bomb used in the attack “was assembled at a terrorist base in the Bekaa Valley which was jointly operated by the IRGC and by the terrorist organization known as Hezbollah.”¹⁰

126. Investigators determined that the force of the explosion was the equivalent of 20,000 pounds of TNT which was, according to the Department of Defense, “the largest non-nuclear explosion ever up to that time.”¹¹

127. The explosion killed dozens of persons including nineteen American Airmen and injured hundreds of others. The blast was so powerful that it was felt twenty miles from the blast site.

128. Each of the named Defendants collaborated, designed, directed, incited, financed, provided material support, aided, abetted, conspired, and executed acts of terror with Hizbollah. Without the direction and support from Iran, MOIS and IRGC, Hizbollah would otherwise not have had the expertise and skills needed to carry out the attack on the Khobar Towers.

129. As a result of the June 25, 1996, Terrorist Attack, Plaintiffs Glenn Tyler Christie, Clayton Omar Zook, Ricky Lee Morse, Christopher Pius Nagel, William Christian Nevins, Scott Elliott Rikard, Bryant Keith White, Joseph Martin Jackson, Timothy Michael Schomaker, Steven Neal Wilson, Nathan Frederick Baloy, Jackie Douglas Swogger, Chad Allen McCullough, and LeSandro E. Santiago (collectively “Surviving Injured Plaintiffs”) suffered serious physical injury, mental anguish, pain and suffering, and loss of enjoyment of life, which have resulted in past and future non-economic and economic damages, including medical expenses, lost income, and loss of earning capacity.

130. As a result of the June 25, 1996, Terrorist Attack, Plaintiffs, Bernardine Clementine Nagel, Michael John Nagel, Gerard Paul Nagel, Patrick James Nagel, Robert Charles Nagel, Terese Marie Hunnel, RaeAnn Beth Nagel, Carolyn Ann Nagel, Mary Margaret Wilmes, Kristina Nevins, Georgiana White, Janet Lynn Douglass, Crystal Lynn Love, Gregory Anthony Russell, Sandra Olivia Bouse, Sheila Lynn Jackson, William Richard Jackson, Melissa Dawn Jackson, Janet Louise Christie, Kimberly Michelle Wilson and Jackie Douglas Swogger (father of Jackie Swogger) (collectively “Immediate Family Member Plaintiffs”) have suffered severe mental anguish, extreme emotional distress, pain and suffering, loss of solatium, loss of consortium, loss of society/services/companionship and past and future economic damages.

131. The Defendants' actions were a substantial factor in the sequence of events that led to the Plaintiffs' injuries. Such injuries were reasonably anticipated as a natural consequence of the Defendants' conduct.

132. As such, Defendants are directly, jointly, and severally liable for the injuries suffered by Plaintiffs and should, therefore, be held accountable.
